THE NATIONAL ROAD SAFETY FOUNDATION AND LA AUTO SHOW® INVITE CALIFORNIA TEENS TO HELP WARN ABOUT DANGERS OF DRUGGED DRIVING

“Drive Safe Los Angeles” Contest Winner Receives $2,000 and Works with Emmy-Winning Producer to Create a National Television Ad on Drugged Driving

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22, 2019 – Teens throughout California are invited to help spread the word about the dangers of drugged driving by entering the Drive Safe Los Angeles video contest sponsored by The National Road Safety Foundation and promoted by the Los Angeles Auto Show (LA Auto Show®). The winner will receive a $2,000 cash prize and the opportunity to work with an Emmy Award-winning TV producer, who will visit the winner’s school and work with students to turn the winning idea into a finished TV public service announcement. The runner-up will receive a $1,000 award.

California teens can submit their ideas for a 30-second public service announcement video about drugged driving, which is a major cause of traffic fatalities nationwide. The winning spot will debut at the 2019 LA Auto Show on Friday, Nov. 30 before being broadcast on more than 160 TV stations nationwide. The teachers or school advisors of the winner and runner-up will each receive a $100 honorarium.

Teens ages 13-19 attending school in California are invited to enter the contest by sending in a script or treatment for a television ad that warns their peers and others about drugged driving. Entries must be received by Oct. 25, 2019. The winner will be announced at the LA Auto Show where his or her video will be shown. All contest entrants will receive a complimentary ticket to attend the Los Angeles Auto Show, courtesy of show management.

Drugged driving has outpaced drunk driving as a cause of fatal crashes, according to the Governors Highway Safety Association (GHSA). A 2016 study by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) showed that 10.7 million Americans drove under the influence of marijuana, including nearly 1 in 10 drivers aged 16 to 20, for all of whom marijuana use is illegal. A 2018 study of young adults aged 18-25 seeking emergency room care reported that nearly one quarter — 24% — drove impaired by drugs in the past year, with 96% reporting driving after marijuana use. Another GHSA 2018 report showed 43.6% of drivers in fatal crashes with known drug test results were drug-positive. Over half were positive for two or more drugs and nearly 41% of drug-positive drivers were also positive for alcohol.

“Driving under the influence of any kind is problematic, not just for the driver, but for the passengers and those sharing the road,” said Terri Toennies, President of the LA Auto Show and AutoMobility LA.
“To try to mitigate this ongoing problem, we encourage teens to develop creative and educational campaigns that communicate the risks of this dangerous behavior.”

“Educating people to the dangers of drugged driving cannot be emphasized enough,” said Michelle Anderson, Director of Operations at The National Road Safety Foundation, a non-profit group that promotes safe driving. “People need to understand that drugs of all kinds, including legal drugs like painkillers and allergy medicines can cause driver impairment that can lead to tragedy.”

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that 10,497 people died in 2016 in crashes involving a drunk driver, or 28 percent of all traffic fatalities. The estimated economic cost of alcohol-impaired driving crashes is $44 billion, making it not only one of the deadliest traffic issues, but also one of the costliest.
